RALEIGH IN BRIEF.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS IN AND AROUND THE CAPITAL.

Short Items of News Gathered on the Fly by the Chronicle's Reporters. Another crowd of exodusters is collecting at the Union depot. Steps were taken last night toward the organization of a base ball club in the city. The county commissioners were in regular session yesterday. Nothing came up except routine business.

The regular meeting of the board of directors of the Union mission will be held at their hall this evening at five

A atrong effort is soon to be made to revive the Young Men's Christian Association here. Earnest and determined parties have the matter in hand.

A number of ladies and gentlemen enjoyed a pic-nic at Stevenson's pond yesterday, given by Mrs. William Cram, and it was, as is everything under her management, an enjoyable affair.

Remember the concert of the Capital Hose Company this evening at 8:30 o'clock. This will be one of the most entertaining amateur performances ever presented in this city. Let everybody attend and help the boys. Metropolitan Hall is the place.

Tom Roberson, the colored man who was reported to have cast off and left his three little children in the care of a colored woman, returned yesterday and took charge of them. He reports having been detained from the city for a longer time than he expected. He thought he left enough for their support during his absence.

A fire alarm was turned in from box 32 on Sunday afternoon about 3:15 o'clock. The cause was the burning of some leaves on the roof of the Carter mansion, on Hillsboro street. The leaves caught from a spark from a chimney. The fire department was on hand in less than two minutes, and the town was mightly stirred up; but no damage was done.

EASTER PICNICERS.

Where Many Raleigh People Went Yesterday.

Raleigh went teetotally wild on the pic-nic question. No wonder. The day and social spirits of the Raleigh people were at their best. The sun, the trees, the birds, everything seemed to extend an invitation to the woods and ponds, and that invitation was warmly and enthusiastically accepted by more people than ever went pic-nicing from Raleigh on Easter day before. They began going out about nine o'clock, and party followed party until after the noon hour. The pic-nic contagion seized upon old people, middle-aged people, young people and children. They piled themselves into wagons, carts, busses, carriages and every other sort of vehicle and scurried away to sniff the grateful and refreshing ozone of the country.

Among the objective points chosen by the parties were: Milburnie, Falls of Neuse, Taylor's Pond, Mahler's Vineyard, Penny's Pond, the Water Works, the penitentiery woods, Pullen Park, Bledsoe's grove, Brookside Park, Millbrook, and numerous other places. Later in the afternoon the pic-nicers began to come in, and as the parties arrived, one after another, in quick suchuzzahs, whoops, hurrahs, cheers, singing, and general vociferation. Every wagon was litterly covered with blossoms of spring. It is not dangerous to say that there is not a whole dogwood the blossoms brought in by the picnickers was never seen before.

There's not the least doubt that the pic nic day was hugely enjoyed. It was a day for enjoyment. Many people "went it alone" and tried to find a quiet spot on some stream where they might cast a line Of the Raleigh Cotton Mills---His and capture the wary chub, perch and trout. But that spot could not be found. Every stream was literally lined with anglers. In fact there were fish enough to give each angler a nib-

> These goods were stolen from a box car at the North Carolina depot, after the car had been loaded and sealed. Bills of lading showed these facts on investigation.

Further investigation raised a suspicion that there is a gang of thieves who had purposed to make a business of robbing cars after they were loaded and sealed. As the cars are loaded, they are usually pushed down the track, a considerable distance from the depot, and such a gang could have carried on their operations successfully but for the fact that they were not smart enough to hide their stolen property securely. Their mode of operation evidently was to break the seal of the car, take out what they chose and then seal it again. Holy men of old believed in signs. Great corporations do not ignore the signs of the times. The great United States Government considers the signs of the times; and the signs of the times now are that Swindell's store is now doing what they predicted one year ago —that they would in one year be doing a very large part of the nice dress goods trade of the city of Raleigh; and if the signs are worth anything, they indicate that Swindell's Racket Store is now selling more nice clothing than is any other store. The signs of the times were, last Saturday, that Swindell was over-run all day with buyers. We think we sold more goods than did any other two We are confident that if all the ladies of Raleigh should see our millinery goods, the signs of the times would be next Friday we will have our GRAND opening in MILLINERY at which time we will exhibit the grandest display of millinery goods ever shown in Raleigh.
